A Note from the Teacher

Dear Parents and Students,

This week we are going to begin our remediation block. In order to wrap up our history unit on time, we will begin remediation on Thursday. From now on, remediation days will be on Tuesday and Thursdays. Students that do not need remediation will be given an alternate enrichment assignment during that block of time.

This Friday we are going to be taking our history test on Egypt and China. Please be looking for a study guide in your child's folder TODAY. If you do not see one in your child's binder, please check the blog.

Parents, as I look at the faces of tired students each morning, I just want to send out a quick reminder that even though daylight savings time is quickly approaching, please try your best to make sure your children are getting enough sleep at night. I do my best to keep homework at a minimum so the students can play and still get to bed on time, but that means we have to pack our days at school to the max. Without an adequate amount of sleep, students have a difficult time dealing with a 7-hour school day. Research states that children between the ages of 7-8 need between 10-12 hours of sleep. Though I know after school activities can make getting enough sleep difficult, please do your best to have your child in bed early. Students, that means go to bed when your parents say to because you cannot sleep at school. Thank you!!

I hope that you have a great week and remember to conquer your mountain!

Blessings!
Mrs. Baldwin

What Are We Learning?

Reading: In celebration of Black History Month, this week we are studying character traits using the story Henry "Box" Brown. Henry Brown was an African-American slave who escaped a life of slavery by mailing himself to Pennsylvania.

Math: We are working on 2-digit subtraction with regrouping using open-number lines and the traditional methods of computation.

Spelling: Students will be working on their leveled spelling lists during station time and practice sorting their words as a class.

Language: We will continue working on how to use contractions in our writing and adding apostrophes to make words possessive. We will also be working on common abbreviations.

History/Science: We are wrapping up our unit about ancient Egypt and China. Be looking for a study guide on Monday!!

Questions? Lost Papers?

If you have any questions, please feel free to email me. If you can't find an assignment, check the class blog first, and then email me and I will do my best to help you as quickly as I can. Thank you! 😊
